Warm words, cold comfort: UK Civil society's ongoing racism problem

https://www.acevo.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2023/12/ACEVO_V4CE_WarmWordsColdComfort_report_v1-1.pdf

(Source: Equally Ours Newsletter, 21 Dec 2023)

This new report from ACEVO and Voice4Change England has been produced as part of the launch of “Home Truths 2” which is “[...] is a new programme of work [...] designed to challenge and support mainstream UK civil society to take serious practical action on anti-racism and race equity.” [Taken from:

<https://www.acevo.org.uk/home-truths-2/>]

“This report on the Home Truths 2 survey is the first major output of the Home Truths 2 programme. The insights and experiences of Black and Minoritised Ethnic people in the survey will guide the programme’s work to build a sector that takes meaningful action on anti-racism and race equity.

Overall, the survey offers glimpses of what an anti-racist future for mainstream civil society might look like. There are some signs that organisations are recentring themselves against the idea of racism but that this positioning is not reflected in practical steps. This means that the lived reality for most survey respondents is of mainstream civil society as a site of racism, not anti-racism.” [p7]

ACEVO is the Association of Chief Executives of Voluntary Organisations.

Voice4Change England “[...] is a charity and national advocate for the Black and Minoritised Ethnic voluntary and community sector. As a leading national membership organisation, V4CE actively speaks to policymakers on the issues that matter to the sector, brings the sector together to share good practices and develops the sector to better meet the needs of communities.” [p5]

Valuable academic analysis of media coverage.

As the article concludes:

“We did not write this article or engage in research to justify the use of violence by anyone in any circumstances. But we write in the knowledge that peace can only come when realistic negotiations take place between people who are actually fighting. For peace to have any chance, the reasons for conflict must be understood and seriously addressed.”

Child Migrant Voices in Modern Britain – oral histories from 1930s to the present day

<https://www.bloomsbury.com/uk/child-migrant-voices-in-modern-britain-9781350332607/>

“Almost half the people displaced worldwide are under 18, yet their voices are rarely heard. This book throws a spotlight on children arriving in Britain from Hitler's Europe in the 1930s to those escaping war in Ukraine in 2022. It follows the journeys of war traumatised children from Mogadishu to Mile End and from Syria to a Scottish isle. Some followed their parents to the 'motherland' from the former British Empire. Others came independently to escape forced marriage or military conscription. These powerful testimonies shed light on children's motivations, trials and achievements, including in adult life, providing critical insight into how the British – both individually and collectively – have welcomed or shunned child migrants. Importantly, Eithne Nightingale links these stories with contemporary issues such as the Windrush Scandal and Britain's Illegal Migration Act 2023.

Situated in its historical and political context Child Migrant Voices in Modern Britain makes vital reading for those studying modern British history, migration and human rights as well as those working with child migrants. It will also appeal to a general audience interested in inspirational life stories.”

To be published Feb 2024.

The author is “Eithne Nightingale [who] has over forty years' experience of working on equality issues in the education and cultural sectors. As the V&A's Head of Equality and Diversity she co-produced the World in the East End gallery that became the inspiration for her PhD in child migration and the films Child Migrant Stories <https://childmigrantstories.com/>. A trustee of BAOBAB Centre for Young Survivors in Exile, Eithne is an award-winning writer, photographer and filmmaker and lives in Hackney, East London.”
